

Flimby Primary School Newsletter

Good afternoon,

We have been trying to set up a new format, using a programme called Sway, to send the newsletter to you. This makes the newsletter more interactive and can include videos. Unfortunately we have discovered that you are only able to open the document interactively if you have a microsoft account. After many hours of trying (!) we are therefore going to be sending it as a PDF or the old style newsletter. We will try to share the link on the website next week if you are able to make it interactive. If anyone is a tech whizz and knows a way around this then let us know!!

This week

I apologise that the email for PE kits did not send on Friday. Mrs Humes, Mrs Taylor and I were here until late last Friday and thought the email explaining about PE had sent ... there must have been gremlins in the system. Every time we send a text or message we will now check our usage logs so we know they have gone.

We have been busy in school this week remembering the Queen; signing our remembrance book. If you wish to sign this please call into school in the main entrance. The children have been tying ribbons on our railings; if you would like to add your own ribbon please feel free to do so. They have also been doing a range of activities for our display boards. We are looking forward to the remembrance service this afternoon.

We have had Commando Joe's in this week; they delivered two evenings of INSET to the staff and worked with the children all day yesterday. We will be using this as part of our PE, other areas of the curriculum and interventions.

We had Ruth from NISCU come and visit us on Tuesday. She led an assembly on new beginnings which was very apt for this time of year.

Y6 produced their own timetables for the term to take home this week; each class are sending their version home today.

Dates

We are still busy working on these dates for the autumn term - it takes so much organising!

Individual and Family School Photos - Thursday 6th October and if you want to be super organised you can add the class photos session for Thursday 20th April 2023! Don't worry we will send reminders closer to the time!

A reminder we are closed on Monday for The Queen's funeral and are back at school on Tuesday.

We are celebrating National Fitness Day Wednesday 21st September. All classes will take part in 10@10 (10 mins of exercise at 10am). Classes will then spend some time discussing the importance of fitness and exercise. Children are to come to school in sports clothes.

FOFS are having a meeting on Tuesday 20th September at 3.30pm at school. If you can come along and support the group with fundraising for the academic year it would be much appreciated!
